Administrative law (Butterworths' student companions) Offers a handy collection of summaries of the important cases in international law. Compact, readable and easily memorised, this book is a great study aid and a must for every International Law student. This text for law students contains 182 summaries (facts, decisions, and principles) of the leading New Zealand and international decisions which are covered in the study of criminal law. It is designed to be used in conjunction with course lecture notes and other texts, and is written in plain language. Guide for students of equity law, providing an alphabetical listing and concise summary of 165 leading cases. Updated to incorporate important cases occurring since publication of the first edition in 1988. Includes an index. The vast growth of statute law in recent years means that students have been forced to develop much greater interpretation skills than before. Ready access to the relevant statutes, however, is not always easy. The Butterworths Student Statutes Series is a firmly established series which provides busy students with carefully researched and compiled, but compact and competitively priced collections of statutory materials. Selected by experienced lecturers to meet the needs of students on most relevant courses, each collection has been put together to Butterworths' traditionally high editorial standards. Statutes are generally arranged in chronological order for ease of reference and amendment notes are provided where necessary. Commentaries are excluded making each title in the series ideal for use in open book examinations. The new edition incorporates the latest changes in the law including the relevant provisions of the Criminal Justice and Police Act 2001, the Terrorism Act 2000, the Sexual Offences (Amendment) Act 2000, the Postal Services Act 2000, and the Human Rights Act 1998. The fifth edition of BUTTERWORTHS STUDENT COMPANION: LAND LAW contains concise summaries of leading New Zealand and international decisions covered in the study of land law. This is an invaluable, easy-to-read reference tool that is designed to be used in conjunction with lecture notes and existing text materials. With the inclusion of a number of new cases and updated summaries taking into account the Property Law Act 2007 passed since the last edition, this new edition is an invaluable study aid. This edition of Employment Law has been updated and now provides all the developments in the law since the publication of the third edition, including the Employment Act 2002. A series of statutory instruments and Council Directives have been implemented since the previous edition - some of these have led to changes to existing legislation, whilst others have introduced a number of new rights such as the new rights to paternity and adoption leave and pay, protection for part time and fixed term workers and the right to flexible working. The aim of the series is to provide busy students with compact and competitively-priced collections of statutory materials, tailor-made for reference and revision purposes. This second edition collection of statutes and statutory instruments on the law of evidence is geared to the needs of students reading courses in Law of Evidence, whether as a component of an LLB degree or as part of a vocational course. It covers both criminal and civil evidence. Butterworths Student Statutes Family Law 3rd Edition aims to provide students with the key legislative materials relevant to the core areas of family law. The notes to the statutes in the Butterworths editions enables the reader to see, in all cases, what material is in force and what is not. Fifth edition of a student guide to criminal law in the Butterworths Student Companions series, first published 1984. Summarises the most important and recent cases in criminal law as selected by the author. Reduces cases to the essentials of a brief statement of facts, the decision, and the reason for that decision. "The vast growth of statute law in recent years means that students have been forced to develop much greater interpretation skills than before. Ready access to the relevant statutes, however, is not always easy." "The Butterworths Student Statutes Series is a firmly established series which provides busy students with carefully researched and compiled, but compact and competitively priced collections of statutory materials. Selected by experienced lecturers to meet the needs of students on most relevant courses, each collection has been put together to Butterworths' traditionally high editorial standards. Statutes are generally arranged in chronological order for ease of reference and amendment notes are provided where necessary. Commentaries are excluded making each title in the series ideal for use in open book examinations." "The new edition incorporates the latest changes in the law including the Trustee Act 2000, the Land Registration Act 2002 and the Commonhold and Leasehold Reform Act 2002."--BOOK JACKET. Family Law Policy in New Zealand considers family law as a whole, from the definitions of 'family', through to context, goals, aspirations and judicial outcomes. Since the 4th edition was published in 2013, family law has undergone significant legislative change. Included in this edition is commentary on the changes recommended by the independent panel on family justice and the Law Commission on relationship property reform. As well as discussion of the Family Violence Act 2018, Child Poverty Reduction Act 2018 and amendments to the Oranga Tamariki Act 1989. The leading family law commentators in New Zealand have again provided insightful and authoritative essays, suitable for use in policy, study and practice. Family law (Butterworths student companions) BUTTERWORTHS QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS: CONTRACT LAW, 3rd Edition, provides students with a thorough study resource to help consolidate their understanding of contract law. The authors, Michael Adams and Nicholas Drake, are Senior Lecturers at AUT. They bring wide and current experience to teaching law to a range of students within business law and schools of law.
