Riviera Nature Notes Oct 13 2019 The spread of the towns, the deforestation of the hills, and other causes are conspiring to destroy many of the conditions which made the Riviera of former days so happy a resort for the lovers of Nature. But there will always be much to observe and much to study in so favoured a region. Quirky, erudite and eminently readable, the fifty-four essays comprising Riviera Nature Notes give an astonishingly clear picture of plant and animal life in the South of France at the turn of the twentieth century--not to mention a fascinating insight into the social mores of the time. A hundred years later the book is as fresh, topical and inviting as when it was first published. Preferring to remain anonymous as a naturalist, not only out of modesty but to guard the integrity of his liturgical writings, its clergyman author speaks of olives and pines, myrtles and figs, mosquitoes and rare butterflies--to name but a few of his subjects--with such passion and verve as to bring the land from the Ligurian coastline to the Maritime Alps vividly alive. gardens at La Mortola, Italy and benefactor of the Royal Horticultural Society's sixty-acre estate at Wisley, a second edition incorporated photographs taken by the temperamental and extravagant heiress Ellen Wilmot, in many ways a greater figure in the plant world than her close contemporary Gertrude Jekyll. Our anonymous author moved in the best horticultural and botanical circles, wore his learning lightly, and unusually for the time, spoke to the common man and the general reader on equal terms. With an engaging, sometimes acerbic, always entertaining and informative voice speaking effortlessly across the years, he will once again garner admirers among nature lovers, gardeners and travellers alike. Trattato Di Chimica Organica ... prima versione sull'ultima edizione francese di Bruxelles di Giovanni Vanzani Nov 06 2021

California. Ediz. Illustrata May 12 2022 California' tells of how the vast emblematic lands of the south of the West Coast left an indelible mark on the life and career of Michele Lombardelli. This material, gathered over the course of various journeys carried out between 2006 and 2009, illustrates with a personal and poetic gaze both the desolate and forgotten realities of California and the most intimate and fleeting of images and moments. The photographs portray places never to be taken for granted and often far off the beaten track, but what further characterises the volume is the pages dedicated to a selection of drawings on hotel bloc-notes, notebooks and diaries. Hand-drawn sketches which, despite capturing no more than a mere detail or a memory, express a constant sense of the transitory.

Through the photographs, we see landscapes, dwellings where the artist resided, details of hotels and spaces where he stayed, his moves, meets and formative places. And so we have a book that speaks of various distant and apparently unconnected realities, on an itinerary influenced by various neighbourhoods of Los Angeles and places such as Twentynine Palms, Joshua Tree, Las Vegas, Palm Desert, San Bernardino, Morongo Valley, Bakersfield, Death Valley and the Mojave Desert.

Albert's Tree Jan 08 2022 "It's finally spring and Albert can't wait to see his favorite tree, but his tree can't seem to stop crying. WAAA WAA WAAAA. What could be the matter?"--Page [4] of cover.

Inspector Maigret loses himself in coastal luxury—and danger—in this devastating mystery set on the French Riviera "It had a smell of holidays. The previous evening, in Cannes Harbour, with the setting sun, had also had the smell of holidays, especially the Ardena, whose owner swaggered in front of two girls with gorgeous figures..."

Dazzled at first by the glamour of sunny Antibes, Maigret soon finds himself immersed in the less salubrious side of the Riviera as he retraces the final steps of a local eccentric.

Three Floors Up Feb 15 2020 Set in an upper-middle-class Tel Aviv apartment building, this best-selling and warmly acclaimed Israeli novel examines the interconnected lives of its residents, whose turmoils, secrets, unreliable confessions, and problematic decisions reveal a society in the midst of an identity crisis. On the first floor, Arnon, a tormented retired officer who fought in the First Intifada, confesses to an army friend with a troubled military past how his obsession about his young daughter's safety led him to lose control and put his marriage in peril. Above Arnon lives Hani, known as "the widow," whose husband travels the world for his lucrative job while she stays at home with their two children, increasingly isolated and unstable. When her brother-in-law suddenly appears at their door begging her to hide him from loan sharks and the police, she agrees in spite of the risk to her family, if only to bring some emotional excitement into her life. On the top floor lives a former judge, Devora. Eager to start a new life in her retirement, Devora joins a social movement, desperately tries to reconnect with her estranged son, and falls in love with a man who isn't what he seems. A brilliant novelist, Eshkol Nevo vividly depicts how the grinding effects of social and political ills play out in the psyche of his flawed yet compelling characters, in often unexpected and explosive ways.

The Art of the Publisher Dec 15 2019 'All the books published by a certain publisher could be seen as links in a single chain' In this fascinating memoir and manifesto the author and publisher Roberto Calasso meditates on the art of book publishing. With his signature erudition and polemical flair, Calasso transcends Adelphi to look at the publishing industry as a whole, from the essential importance of graphics, jackets and cover flaps to the consequences of universal digitization. And he outlines what he describes as the 'most hazardous and ambitious' profile of what a publishing house can be: a book comprising many books, akin to that of other twentieth-century publishers, from Giulio Einaudi to Roger Straus, of whom the book offers brief portraits.
